THE OLD RACKET REVIVED!

The Gift Enterprise Law

Again broken by Lawrence Merchants; dull trade makes them desperate and they resort to the old humbug method in order to force sales. The good people of Lawrence are asked to sell themselves for a boys' sled which costs less than fifty cents!

Is it possible that our worthy competitors have so far forgotten themselves as to be placed on record as law breakers? Do they not know that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has a law prohibiting the practice of giving presents as an inducement in connection with the sale of merchandise? Do the people not know that this law was made to do away with an acknowledged humbug and common nuisance, and will they not aid in sustaining the same by evading dealers who break it? If our competitors are so sadly in need of business as to resort to such methods, why not pass around the hat, take up a collection for them, and thus assist the clothing fraternity of Lawrence in keeping its good name of the past? Did you ever think how transparently thin such inducements are, and that dealers who hold out such inducements do so to catch the simple minded? Do the people believe that these presents are given either for love or charity? No. They are well aware that they pay for them in the price of the goods purchased.

Do fathers and mothers not know that it is a direct imposition to them to place these inducements before their boys, thus making their quiet home a howling pandemonium? The effect on the boys is that they completely lose their heads. The judgment they would otherwise exercise is entirely gone; and do you not know that a boy under such circumstances would pay three dollars for a two dollar suit in order to get a fifty cent sled? Do you not know that it is the easiest thing in the world to mark a two dollar suit three dollars, and put in a fifty cent sled for a present? And do you not see that you are thus paying one dollar for a fifty cent sled? Is it not clearly plain that a man cannot give a hundred cents' worth of goods for a dollar in cash, and load you down with presents beside? Do you not think it better for your pocket-book to buy your clothing of a clothing dealer who has the courage to sell his goods on their merits, and when you want a sled buy it of a dealer in sleds? Do you not think such a course is a good lesson to your boys, teaching them to carry a level head through life, and by all means to keep away from gift enterprises? If some long-headed, high-minded person will suggest and carry out some method of doing away with this disgusting and demoralizing practice in the retail trade, his or her name will secure an exalted place in modern history. If such reformation is to be had only by a popular subscription in aid to those who are driven to such desperation, pass around the hat, and we will "chip in" liberally.

Four regular cars are now used on the Andover and Berkeley Street line of the street railway, instead of three as formerly. Increased patronage has made the addition of one more car necessary. It will make no change in the running time at either end, but hereafter a car will leave the station in Lawrence, running each way at seven minutes of and twenty-five minutes past the hour.

We are indebted to John S. Colby, ex-editor of the Lowell Fox-Populi and now a member of the Seminary, for a copy of the Fourteenth Annual report of the trustees of the Danvers Lunatic Hospital. Mr. Colby is one of the trustees. He also informs us that Prof. J. W. Churchill is to read at the Hospital next Wednesday evening.

Though Gen. S. C. Armstrong of Hampton Institute lies in a precarious condition at the Parker House, Boston, the work he begun is being carried on. Tuesday noon an enthusiastic meeting was held in the Old South Meeting House in Boston at which the eminent divines Bishop Brooks, Dr. G. A. Gordon, Rev. Samuel Elliot, Dr. Edward Everett Hale and others spoke. A large committee to solicit funds was appointed and the result will be a great help to Hampton.

The Faculty meeting as conducted by Philo last evening was a great success, and the crowds who came to laugh at the oddities and characteristics of the gentlemen represented, only prove what fun it is to make fun of others. We presume the utter ignoring of the English Department was unintentional. In these days, when a classical education is growing to be less and less important, and the scientific courses coming to the front, it is hardly supposable that so progressive a school as Phillips would think it wise to openly fail to recognize the spirit of the times.

A little daughter of John Weeks, who resides on Florence Street, while playing with her brother last Wednesday fell in such a way as to break her arm near the elbow. The unfortunate little girl is doing as well as could be expected.

Remember the date of the lecture on the Passion Play by Rev. Frederic Palmer. It is next Tuesday night in the Pumphard Hall. It will be illustrated by many stereopticon views and will be well worth hearing. Tickets are now on sale by the scholars and at the Andover Bookstore.

Miss Edith McLawlin gave a very pleasant whist party to several of her friends last Friday night at the residence of H. McLawlin on Florence Street.

The Sunday School of the Chapel Church had a very pleasant Christmas entertainment in Bartlet Chapel, Tuesday evening. The Phillips Glee Club sang several times, E. S. Bailey played two cornet solos, T. E. Rhodes accompanying him on the piano, and the children performed a pretty dialogue. After this ice cream and cake were served, and each one presented with a box of candy.

Dr. J. F. Richards is ill at his residence with la grippe.

The Theological Seminary closes next Monday for a vacation of two weeks.

The Free Church Sunday School will hold its Christmas concert next Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

By permission of Principal Bancroft, Thomas E. Rhodes played his popular "White and Blue Triumphant March" at the Academy Tuesday morning after the chadel services, in the presence of all the students, who were apparently much pleased with it.

A collision occurred Tuesday forenoon in front of the residence of A. S. Manning, an electric car and one of E. Pike's order wagons being the participants. The result was the breaking of both shafts of the wagon, slight damage to the front of the car, and quite a severe shaking up of John Fryer who was riding on the wagon. Joseph Abbott, who was driving says that the horse was traveling along without any appearance of being frightened, but when he got to the car turned quickly right in front of it. The car was stopped before it had gone more than the car's length, so that it could not have been going at a very high rate of speed. No one was to blame and it is fortunate that no more damage was done.

The annual New Year's entertainment of the Free Church Sunday School will be held on Friday evening, Jan. 1, 1892.

Both of their large windows are, draped with an endless variety of such first class goods as this firm has the reputation of carrying in stock, so tastefully arranged as to make a picture of which a professional decorator might well feel proud. These windows are worth going miles to see.

Dr. J. E. Prescott, the well-known, skillful, and optical specialist, will visit this town next week and can be consulted at the Elm House.

Miss C. W. Sproule of Lowell spent last Sunday with her friend, Mrs. G. R. Caldwell on Washington Ave.

Miss Mary Poor is visiting friends in New York.

The Philomathean Society of Phillips Academy closed its term with a public exhibition in the school hall last evening quite a large audience being in attendance. The Andover Band Orchestra furnished excellent music during the evening and the rest of the programme consisted of two part, a scene from the Philo. Senate and a Mock Faculty meeting. Both were very interesting and the latter exceedingly amusing.

The Andover Grange fair was again well attended last Friday night and it was a great success. J. B. Pike guessed the correct height of the pole, 12 ft. 6 1/2 inches, and won the carving knife and fork. The sofa pillow was won by Miss Bailey on the number of seeds in a pumpkin. Mrs. E. H. Bailey got the guess cake and Mrs. Fred Shattuck a large doll for her guess on the pop-corn kernels. Mrs. Young, North Andover, carried away the lamp, as she best knew how many seeds were in the squash.

Two Fire Alarms Sunday.

Where is the fire? That was the question asked when the first alarm was sounded about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. No one to our knowledge succeeded in finding where it was. The report was that it was in the woods "back of Bradley's." The hose-carriage and firemen hurried post-haste to this place, and, seeing no fire, went down the old railroad, and entered the woods by a roadway just this side of C. N. L. Stone's. No blaze was discovered, and a return was made to the engine house. Then it was suggested that it might be "Bradley's in Ballardvale," and off they started for this place, but evidently there was no fire there, for the Ballardvale firemen were all resting quietly.

By the way, what is the matter with the fire alarm telegraph between this town and Ballardvale? This, it is supposed, is to notify when help is wanted in either place. But this is said to be out of order. It surely ought to be repaired, and prevent any such useless runs as this one was.

About 6 o'clock another alarm was sounded for a fire in the woods in the rear of the old slaughter house on High Street, and this time there was a little blaze, which was easily extinguished. It furnished a little excitement if nothing else.

One of the Finest.

Certainly one of the finest Christmas displays ever made in this city, and one that far surpasses any attempt at originality of design, can be seen in W. H. Gile & Co.'s west window; it is a good representation of a Dutch Wind Mill, and cannot fail to remind any one familiar with that country of what the eye is almost sure to rest upon, no matter in what part of Holland you travel. The mill is built entirely of material sold by the above firm, the main part being covered with gent's handkerchiefs, while the long sweeps and fans, which are seven feet across, are handsomely decorated with silk handkerchiefs, with ladies' corsete handkerchiefs streaming from each corner, and when in motion, makes an artistic attraction. Other parts of the window are decorated with mufflers, suspenders, umbrellas, travelling bags, neckwear, and a general assortment of Christmas gifts.

Prevention is Better

Than cure, and those who are subject to rheumatism can prevent attacks by keeping the blood pure and free from the acid which causes the disease. For this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla is used with great success.

The Realm of the Microbe.

All living things throughout the animal and vegetable kingdom are composed of cells, springing in the first instance, from one single cell. The entire human child, with all its great future possibilities, is as Haeckle says, in its first stage only a single ball of protoplasm monerula. But at the other end of the scale we have microscopic organisms, existing as simple cells, capable of performing all the functions of life, and of playing an important role in the economy of nature.

Pasteur, in the course of his study of the germ theory, argued that all that has lived must die, and all that is dead must be disintegrated, dissolved, or gasified; the elements which are the substratum of life, must enter into new cycles of life. One grand phenomenon, he saw, presides over this work—the phenomenon of fermentation.

What, then, is the cause of fermentation? In order to answer this profound question, Pasteur devoted himself to the study of the microscopic beings, which he finally divided into two great classes, the aerobes and the anaerobes, those which require free oxygen for their existence, and those which are killed by the presence of free oxygen, although able to wrest oxygen from the materials whence they derive their nourishment.

The aerobes are those which begin work on the surface of things, their mission being to clear the earth, by a process of slow combustion of all that is dead. The anaerobes, working simultaneously, spring into activity underneath the surface of putrescible matter, and, dying on exposure to the free oxygen of the air, are, in their turn, swept away by the aerobes on the surface.

Thus the two great classes of minute living organisms co-operate towards the fulfillment of a common end, the one beginning work which the other takes up and completes. But for their united efforts we should cease to live, for the earth would be littered with fallen debris and organic matter of every kind, all of which it is their function to transmute into the very elements which are necessary to life again. In the parts of the earth where these organisms do not exist there is no vegetation, no organic matter, no life of any kind; the region is one vast field of ice, a sandy desert, or an expanse of eternal snow. When perchance these desolate places are invaded by living creatures who starve and fall by the way, there is no decay, for the organisms whose office is that of putrefaction are not present to perform their analytical functions.

"Thus," says Pasteur, "the destruction of everything that has lived reduces itself to the simultaneous action of these three great natural phenomena, fermentation, putrefaction, and slow combustion. The carbon, the hydrogen, the nitrogen of organic matters are transferred by the oxygen of the air, and by the action of these aerobes, into carbonic acid, vapor of water, and ammonia gas."

Having thus recognized the vast importance of these minute organisms, Pasteur the chemist watched, with unceasing interest, the work of these greater chemists in Nature's own laboratory. Not only were they engaged in the immense business of preserving the balance between life and death, but they participated largely in the everyday work of the world, and were taking an active part in the industries of man. The power of these lowly and invisible creatures is so enormous that they are well called "the masters of the world." If we neglect the laws of health they are the Nemesis which deals punishment; for in the steady, ceaseless pursuit of duties, they spare none. All organic matter is the same to them whether it be the human body living in the dunghill or the cottage door.

In nature, some of these organisms live only in living bodies, and are consequently distinguished as parasites, while others live on dead bodies, and are known technically as saprophytes, but in the laboratory both forms as a rule can be cultivated on artificial material, rabbits being an exception, as it can only be cultivated in the living bodies of animals. The Rev. Dr. Dallinger, who keeps a museum of living putrefactive organisms, describes one of them, to which he has devoted special attention, and thus reveals the marvelous workings of nature in a world we cannot see. This creature is so minute that the average measurement is 1-10,000 of an inch in length and 1-19,500 of an inch in breadth. Nevertheless it has six flagella, each one of which is three times as long as the length of its body. The movement of these creatures is exceedingly beautiful and graceful, with the long flagella waving to and fro. After a moment's rest the group under observation will be seen to start into active movements in a series of wave-like leaps, reminding one of the movements of a shoal of porpoises, which is continued from ten to fifteen inundations. This organism, unlike others described by Dr. Dallinger, was never anchored and had no power of attaching itself, but by freely darting upon the matter attacked, such matter was visibly, in the course of half an hour, reduced in size and altered in shape. Each one in turn, in a space of about two seconds, comes into contact with the particle and at once recedes to a distance of four or five times the length of the flagella, and instantly again darts upon the object, and this may be continued by given forms for hours.

Fifty to a hundred may be seen with ease in one microscopic field pursuing their untiring work. It is the more entrancing that it is apparently rhythmic, not like the measured march of a regiment, but the rhythmic movement of a peal of bells.

These are examples of the putrefactive organisms at work throughout nature, in company with a vast number of other forms, all engaged in ridding the world of putrescible matter. It is difficult to imagine any study more fruitful in happy results to mankind or more intensely fascinating to the student, than that comprised in the new world of the invisible.

The point where perhaps most discussion has taken place is that on the border line between the pathogenic and the non-pathogenic organisms. In some cases, for instance, that of the Bacillus subtilis and the Bacillus anthracis the difference is so slight that it can hardly be detected under the microscope, yet the one is harmless to man, and the other deadly.

From the study of the familiar fermentation of the yeast, Pasteur passed to the study of the diseases of beer and wine, and thence to the silkworm disease, which latter proved the connecting link which established the general relationship between the diseases of beer, wine, and all putrescible things, with the diseases of all living creatures from silkworms to man.—Mrs. Priestly in Nineteenth Century, London, May.

He Leads us on.

"He leads us on,
By paths we did not know,
Upward he leads us though our steps be slow,
Though oft we faint and falter by the way,
Though storms and darkness oft obscure the day;

Yet when the clouds are gone,
We know He leads us on.

He leads us on
Through the unquiet years;
Past all our dream-land, hopes and doubts, and fears
He guides our steps. Through all the tangled maze
Of sin, of sorrow, and o'er clouded days.

We know His will is done;
And still He leads us on.

And He, at last,
After the restless fever we call life,
After the dreariness, the aching pain—
The wayward struggles which have proved in vain,
After all our toils are past,
Will give us peace at last."

Memorial Hall Books.

We wonder if it is thoroughly known how many there are of these, and how well adapted to the demands of the great majority of Andover readers, for whose benefit the far-seeing provision of our Public Library was made. We are informed by Mr. Holt that in round numbers there are twelve thousand volumes on the shelves, the exact number at the last annual report having been 11,738. A small proportion of these consists of government documents and similar publications, not often referred to, although occasionally convenient. There is in addition a considerable number of encyclopedias, atlases, gazetteers, and the like, for reference only, but for that purpose exceedingly and constantly valuable. The large majority of books however is available for circulation among the families of the town, and the time and pains freely spent by the Rev. Francis H. Johnson, who has for some years had the special care of procuring them, has secured the selection of a proper variety and high character of books.

Realizing that the youth of our community always constitute the largest—and of course the most important—class of readers, the effort is to obtain books that are entertaining, interesting, and instructive to them. For this purpose, the latest and best issues in fiction, travels, biography, and history, are put on the list, and as many of them bought as the means of the library will permit. Special preference is given to our standard American authors, past as well as present, renewing the books when worn out—as is the case with many popular volumes. This may suggest to readers the importance of care in the handling of books, so that the money spent in re-purchasing or re-binding the old books, may procure so many more new ones!

Another hint may be also made in the interest of increasing the number of books beyond the purchasing limit of the Library. It is of the case that persons buy or receive some current book which they do not care to preserve, or perhaps do not have time to read; why not pass it into the circulation of the Library for the reading of many others who do not otherwise have the opportunity of seeing it? Books having to do with Andover, either in their subjects or writers, are specially desired, and this feature may be promoted by handing in to the Librarian the names of such books—better yet, the books themselves. Authors—and Andover has many—would be gratefully pardoned for waiving the natural suggestions of modesty in thus contributing to the general good.

It may serve the convenience of the patrons of the Library to indicate from time to time the receipt of such volumes, as also to refer to the character of the new books more fully than can be done in the formal accession lists published in the TOWNSMAN. In the Bulletin of Nov. 20, are several, which, directly, or indirectly, are connected with Andover. The memoir of Prof. Phelps, by his daughter, is one of special local interest. Prof. Hardy's "Life and Letters of Neesima," the Japanese runaway, afterwards educator of his people, abounds in allusions to his long sojourn in Andover. "We All" is a characteristic story by "Octave Thanet," well remembered in Andover as Alice French of Abbot Academy, 1868. "A Tale of Home and War" was written by Mrs. Henry M. Howland, when her husband was in the Seminary, and is a sketch of the experiences of Rev. Worcester Willey among the Cherokees, and the "Translation of Dante's Letters" was edited by an "Andover boy."

The revised "Gazetteer of Massachusetts," by Rev. Elias Nason, has full descriptions of every town in the state, and notices of every village and post office; this will be found exceedingly useful for reference. "The Sabbath in Puritan New England" is a very readable account of the way "Lord's Day" was kept hereabouts in the last century, and "Huckleberries gathered from New England Hills" deals also with "the good old times." "Man's Friend the Dog" will interest those who are interested in dogs, and it is said that the superintendent of the Andover Electric Light Company sat up nearly all night to read Trowbridge's "Electrical Boy." Lieut. Wadhams recommended the "Influence of Sea-Power upon History," a unique and instructive book. Edward Everett Hale's "Christopher Columbus" is a short and compact life of a man we shall need to renew our acquaintance with before 1892 is over. Boys will probably find out about "The Boy Settlers," "Home Life on an Ostrich Farm," and "New Mexico David," without an introduction.

Dr. Bancroft has contributed the "Study of the History and Constitution of the United States," and Rev. Edward W. Pride, a new resident of our town, his "Short History of Tewksbury." A specially valuable gift to the Library has just been made by ex-Congressman Greenhalge, a large Government map of the United States, which is to be mounted and hung in the reading room, a constant object lesson for all who sit at the tables beside it.

C. C. C.

Lines suggested by the title of a recent sermon preached in the Chapel of Andover Theological Seminary:—"The Sabbath of our Fathers vs. the Sunday of our times."

THE SABBATH OF OUR FATHERS—name of rest! Heaven's starry floor bends downward unto earth;

All holy souls, like mountain heights uplifted,
Stand glorified before the gates of pearl,
Irradiated with the light of precious stones
Walled in about the city of our God,
And echo down to earth the song of cherubim;
While he who once was slain among them walks,
And speaks the calm, firm words, "Be faithful ye."

And soon shall crowns be given to every one,
Beside me in my throne shall ye forever sit;
A DAY OF FAITH AND STRENGTH AND EXALTATION!

THE SUNDAY OF OUR TIMES—heaven in name,
Like other days, worldly in thought and speech;
Begun with trashy news and rapid tales;
Its bell, the postman's ring; its song, the news-boy's scream;
Its chorals, rambling cars; its Heavenly Visitant,
The captive lightning, groaning in its chains;
Its shrine, the uncleansed altar where, six days in seven,
Grim Mammon shrives his low-browed worshippers.
A DAY OF SENSE AND PROSE AND DEGRADATION.

Americans not Money Lovers.

Do we love money? What we love we want to keep, to increase, to monopolize; not to spend, to waste, to share as the average American does with such sums as fall to his lot. If we love money we should guard it zealously; add to it with watchfulness, toil, and pains; strike furiously at him who would aim to deprive us of the least portion. Is this our disposition or our habit? Are we inclined to hoard?

Hoarding is an old-world custom, which we do not sympathize with or understand. Foreigners, when they come to our shores, are apt to relinquish the custom; for liberality is in the air. They cease to be anxious to augment what is to be had on every hand, what is accounted of minor importance. A native miser of the true breed is seldom heard of, is almost a contradiction in terms. Misers here, when discoverable, are found to be of alien blood, and governed by trans-Atlantic influences.

Americans, some of them, unquestionably, love to make money. They enjoy the excitement of pursuit, the frequent difficulty of its procurement in vast amounts, the pleasure of management, manipulation, and successful outcome. They relish the game rather than its stakes, the power they exercise rather than the possession. But they are scarcely representative. They are, as a rule, the born money-makers, exceptional everywhere. They have a genius for their vocation, which is irrepressible, and is strengthened by indulgence. It is perfectly natural that they should obey their instincts; follow the bent of their minds, the drift of their being. Even without offered prizes, they would catch the scent, and run with the hounds. It is in their blood and in harmony with their temperament. But this disposition hardly springs from a love of money—very different from a love of making it.

After money has been acquired, to whatever extent, it does not satisfy these fortune-chasers, who continue the chase for the sake of the chase. It is of these that we are always hearing, Junius Henri Bower, in North American Review for December.

The Columbia Daily Calendar.

An old friend in a new dress, and an article that has come to be one of the indispensables of an editor's desk, comes to hand in the Columbia Daily Calendar for 1892. The Calendar is in the form of a pad containing 367 leaves, each 5-18 x 2-5-8 inches; one for each day of the year, to be removed daily, and one for the entire year. The day of the week, of the month and of the year are given, and each slip bears a short paragraph pertaining to cycling or some kindred subject. At the bottom of each leaf is a blank for memoranda, every leaf being accessible at any time. The stand is an entirely new departure, being made of sheet metal finished in ivory black, and is very compact. At the close of the year the stand will be available for another pad. This is the seventh issue of this now well-known Calendar, yet all the matter is fresh and new, having been carefully collated from leading publications and prominent writers, most of it being specially written for this purpose. It comprises notable events in cycling, opinions of physicians and clergymen, hints about road making, and numerous other topics.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it. How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

Andover Orchestra Concert.

The concert in the Town Hall last Friday night under the auspices of the Andover Orchestra was not very well attended, but it certainly deserved a much larger patronage. However, those who were present appreciated its worth, and the applause was hearty and encores were frequent. The programme was as presented in our last issue and every selection was well performed. An Andover audience knows what to expect from Mr. Tyler and they were not disappointed, his bass solos being excellent. The feature of the evening was the singing of that popular tenor Herbert E. Johnson of Boston, and opportunities to hear such tenor solos in this town are indeed few and far between. It was a veritable treat for the audience. The orchestra did its part in an excellent manner, and the cornet solo by Mr. Bailey of Phillips Academy was especially good. It is to be regretted that more could not have heard this first class concert.

Farmer's Club.

Thursday evening the second meeting of the Farmer's Club discussed Fruit, Orchards, etc. Daniel Cummings, B. F. Wardwell, A. B. Wiggins, H. A. Hayward, E. F. Holt and many others spoke more or less at length, and the questions and remarks flying across the room showed the interest and pleasure those attending felt in the discussion. The limited number of varieties that prove successful was exemplified by one member, whose orchard numbered at one time, sixty-two kinds of apples, but now is reduced to six varieties. Selection, spacing, cultivation, grafting, mulching and trimming of orchard and small fruit afforded topics for lively talk and detail of experience. The profitable results by unanimous consent seemed to be reached by superior size, appearance, quality, tasteful and neat, packing and marketing, and judicious methods of reaching customers. It is hoped that ladies and our townspeople will attend these Club meetings, from time to time through the winter.

BALLARDVALE.

The quarterly meeting of the Andover Union, Y. P. S. C. E., which was to have been held next Tuesday evening at North Andover, has been postponed to Tuesday evening, Dec. 20, on account of its being holiday week.

The Craighead & Kintz Co. has suspended overtime work, and will soon commence their annual inventory. Their fall trade has been very good, and more lamps have been sold than ever before. The new Daylight is meeting with ready sale.

In the Bradlee Course, last evening, Mr. Charles F. Underhill of New York, the impersonator, gave a Dickens programme. His first selection was Dr. Marigold, and was finely given. A short, humorous selection followed, and in his closing effort Mr. Winkle's adventure in the Sedan chair perhaps showed his ability better than either of the others, and the different characters were brought out very plainly.

Miss Helen C. Bradlee has made her annual gift of $100 to each of our three churches.

The gripe is having a run, and many have had an attack or are still suffering with it. Although it is in its worst form, there are no dangerous cases.

The Y.P.L.U. minstrels, Wednesday evening, were of course a great success. The hall was well filled by a discriminating audience. The songs were good, although the chorus work was not at a very high standard. The jokes were fresh, some say a little too fresh, but were well received. Miss Stark presided at the piano, and Mr. H. B. Lowe assisted with the violin, both played very nicely. Mr. Watts of Lawrence sang two selections which pleased the audience. A restaurant scene closed the entertainment, and was silly enough to amuse anyone.

At the Methodist Church next Sabbath the subject of the morning sermon will be "How to win souls"; subject of evening sermon, "Profit and Loss." There will be a concert and Christmas tree on Thursday evening next week. Special Revival meetings will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week at which meetings further notices will be given. These meetings will be held in the church to which all Christians and all others interested in such work are cordially invited. Ten or fifteen minutes of praise service at the opening. PASTOR.

LAWRENCE.

The Emerson Manufacturing Company is having a new iron foundry erected in South Lawrence.

The Salvation Army in this city is to celebrate the ninth anniversary of the establishment of the Army here by appropriate exercises at the barracks on Lowell Street next Sunday. Major Brewer of Boston will be there, and Revs. W. E. Wolcott, H. A. Spencer, and W. A. Ramsden, local clergymen, will participate.

The plan to connect Lawrence, Lowell, and Haverhill with an electric street railway seems to be well under way, and surveyors have already been over the entire route, and made plans. Ex-mayors Bruce and Simpson are the Lawrence men especially interested.

Some idea of the extent of our wool scouring establishment may be gleaned from the fact that E. Frank Lewis of South Lawrence, Mass., is scouring about three hundred thousand pounds per week, sometimes overrunning that amount.—Wade's Fibre and Fabric.

Ex-alderman Henry B. Dyer died at his home Tuesday night, at the age of 72 years.

It is thought that there are as many as 1000 cases of la gripe in this city.

An Andover farmer living on the road to Lowell says there will be a heavy snow storm before Saturday. He says he has been observing the weather for about 35 years, and thinks he knows whereof he speaks. He thinks it will be big enough to make up for the long drought and the long delayed snow that should have already come.—Eagle.

Col. Wm. R. Rowell of Methuen has just recovered from illness caused by exposure during the senatorial campaign.

Two new electric snow ploughs have arrived for the electric road.

Marshall P. Thompson of this city has been elected class poet by the class of 1892 at Dartmouth College.

The Governor has not yet sent in any nomination for a clerk of the Police Court in this city. It was expected before this.

KILLED BY ONE BLOW.

AN AGED HOTEL KEEPER MURDERED IN VERMONT.

Refused to Sell Liquor to a Frenchman, Who, Becoming Enraged, Struck Him with a Whiffletree.

PETERBORO, N. H., Dec. 17.—John C. Wheeler, keeper of a hotel at Rindge Centre, was murdered about 5 o'clock last night, in front of his hotel, by John Burnell, or Brannell, a Frenchman, belonging to Fitzwilliam.

Burnell, accompanied by another man whose name is not at present known, drove up to the hotel and asked Wheeler for some liquor. This was refused, and high words followed and a scuffle ensued.

Burnell became terribly enraged, and seizing a whiffletree, dealt Wheeler a savage blow over the head.

Killing Him Instantly. Two other men, who came to Wheeler's assistance rendered severe treatment and one was very badly injured.

After dealing the murderous blow the Frenchman and his companion ran from the scene across the fields, but the latter was soon overtaken by pursuing parties and is now in custody.

Burnell up to the present time has eluded arrest. He is described as being

A Hard Character, who has served several terms in jail for various offenses. He is about 40 years old, nearly six feet tall, wears a mustache and had on a dark overcoat and soft light hat.

His victim was about 65 years of age, nearly blind, and leaves a widow and three children. He had been in the hotel business in Rindge about three years, his son Frank, having previously conducted the house.

RECIPROCITY AGREED UPON

Between the United States and West India Islands and British Guiana.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The department of state makes the following statement: For the past three or four weeks negotiations have been in progress between the department of state and the British legation, assisted by commissioners from Jamaica, Barbadoes, British Guiana and other colonies, with a view to reciprocity arrangements between the United States and British West Indies, based upon section 3 of the tariff act. The last of the commissioners, those from Jamaica, left the city yesterday, and it is understood that a satisfactory arrangement has been agreed upon, to embrace Jamaica, Barbadoes, the Windward and the Leeward islands, Trinidad and British Guiana. In return for the continued free introduction of sugar and coffee into the United States it has been agreed by the colonies named, not only to greatly enlarge the free list of their tariffs, but also to make very considerable reductions in the duty on the leading agricultural and other products of the United States. It is expected the official proclamation on the subject will be published before Jan. 1.

FIELD INDICTED.

He Is Admitted to Bail in $25,000, but is Immediately Rearrested.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Edward M. Field was indicted by the grand jury at 1:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The indictment charges the misappropriation of fifty of Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf railway bonds of the par value of $1000 each.

At 4:30 p. m. Field was arraigned before Judge Cowing. His counsel entered a plea of not guilty to the indictment, and he was admitted to bail in $25,000, J. Pierpont Morgan and John T. Terry qualifying as bondsmen. While at the bar Field kept his eyes cast down and big tears trickled down his cheeks.

As soon as he left the court room he was arrested on an order of arrest in a civil suit brought by R. H. Dietz, who charges Field with hypothecating securities deposited with the latter's firm for a loan of $125,000. Field was then taken to Ludlow street jail. Field will be called to plead to the indictment on Thursday.

MAN'S INHUMANITY.

An Old Sailor, Crazy with Typhoid Fever, Frenzied Naked.

ROCKLAND, Me., Dec. 17.—Manley Higgins, a sailor on the schooner Georgiana, died at the marine hospital yesterday. The circumstances of his death becoming known aroused a storm of indignation here.

It seems that when the vessel arrived here Tuesday, Higgins had been sick two weeks of typhoid fever of the most malignant form. An attempt was made to land him at Blue Hill during the voyage to this port, but admission was refused him.

Before the vessel got here the man was raving crazy, and had torn his clothes into shreds. Nothing could be given him for relief. When the vessel landed at the wharf and the case was made known, the man was entirely naked, and in this condition was conveyed to the hospital.

In spite of the marine surgeon's skill he died yesterday morning. Higgins was 60 years of age and a native of Belfast.

The Nevins-Blaine Divorce Suit.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Dec. 15.—In the petition of Mary Nevins-Blaine vs. James G. Blaine, Jr., in the circuit court of South Dakota, the court ordered that the said Mary-Nevins Blaine be allowed $500 as attorney's fees in conducting this action. The trial is set for the February term. The plaintiff is now taking depositions in New York.

FOR WHITE MEN ONLY.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 17.—A conference of leading Republicans of this state, who have in view the formation of a White Man's-Republican party, was held here yesterday. It was decided to appoint a committee of 100 to take in charge the work of organization and generally direct the affairs of the party.

Lord-Lytton's Successor.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, more generally known as Lord Dufferin, formerly governor general of Canada, viceroy of India and ambassador at Constantinople, has been appointed ambassador at Paris, in succession to the late Earl of Lytton.

A Sensation Exploded.

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 17.—The 18-year-old son of James C. Newton, who caused such a sensation in this city last Friday by claiming to be the victim of a murderous crank, has confessed that the "crank" is a myth, and that he shot himself in the right arm purely for sensational purposes.

Sixty Years a Priest.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 14.—Father Ballela, the first and oldest Benedictine priest in this country, died yesterday. He was born in 1805 and was ordained to the priesthood in 1831.

TREATED WORSE THAN BEASTS.

Missionaries' Startling Stories of Slave Life in Central Africa.

COLOGNE, Dec. 17.—At a meeting of the African society here, Canon Kesper read extracts from the diaries of African missionaries, which told of revolting cruelty in connection with slave hunting near Lake Tanganyika. One statement read was as follows:

The notorious slave hunter, Makatcho, brought back with him 200 natives of every age and sex as the result of his last expedition. These wretched people were chained in batches of a score. They were like living skeletons. While the caravan was traversing the Kirando country, where there was a famine, the marching slaves were obliged, through hunger, to dig up and eat roots which animals refused to eat. Hundreds of them died of hunger, fever, or dysentery. A large number of women and children, whose want of strength impeded the rapid march of the column, were drowned.

Laggards, through illness, were killed with eudogs at the rate of from ten to fifty daily. At night they were sheltered in roofless huts, while the goats which were being taken along were kept in covered stables. Every morning the bodies of those who died during the night were dragged out and thrown to the hyenas, which followed the camp. Many poor creatures were covered with burns and sores, resulting from the punishment inflicted upon them.

Similar accounts were given of cruelties practiced by other slave hunters. The missionaries ransom the slaves and place those that are sick in a hospital whenever possible.

CROOKED POSTMASTERS.

An Alleged Conspiracy in Which They Have Been Cheating Uncle Sam.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 17.—The postal authorities have made another arrest, the unfortunate one this time being Postmaster Joseph P. Miller of Highwood, a station in the town of Hamden. He is charged with paying personal debts with postage stamps. Miller is the fourth postmaster arrested since Tuesday. The charges against these men, it is said, do not disclose the true inwardness of the whole matter. It seems, from what was learned yesterday, that all of the postmasters have been in a conspiracy, which, it is claimed, have defrauded the government to a great extent. All of the men arrested preside over offices, the salary of which varied directly as the number of stamp cancellations.

It is alleged that the postmasters had made an arrangement whereby card manufacturers in towns adjacent to New Haven, whose mail correspondence was very heavy, turned over to them all mail matter for cancellation. The salaries were thereby increased, and the postmasters, it is charged, paid the manufacturers a certain amount for the favor. It is estimated that by these methods the New Haven postoffice has been beaten out of at least $50,000 in the sale of stamps.

FIGHTING IN INDIA.

Tribesmen are Routed by British Troops After a Hard Battle.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The viceroy of India telegraphs that the Hunza Nigir tribesmen having menaced the Chalt fort, near Gilgit, the garrison of which is composed of Cashmere troops with British officers, commanded by Colonel Durand, the garrison was obliged to attack the strongly fortified stronghold of Nilt on Dec. 2. Desperate fighting ensued. Captain Aylmer and Lieutenants Boisrazon and Badcock, with conspicuous gallantry, blew up the fort gate with gun cotton, fought their way in, followed by a few Sepoys, and captured the fort. Colonel Durand was shot and seriously injured. Captain Aylmer and Lieutenant Badcock were severely wounded. Seven Sepoys were killed and twenty wounded. The enemy's loss was severe. Nine were taken prisoners and one gun was captured. The enemy having retreated to the hillside, and keeping up desultory firing, the troops again attacked and dislodged them. In this engagement Lieutenant Gorton and seven Sepoys were wounded.

PEACE AT A HIGH PRICE.

Differences Between the League and the Association Almost Settled.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 17.—The Association conference committee—Von der Ahe, Von der Horst and Elliott—recommended the twelve-club plan to the Association last night. This was accepted. The conference committee gave a hearing to the clubs that were dropped, viz., Chicago, Columbus and Milwaukee.

These clubs, it is understood, will propose their prices and terms of settlement; when this is completed, then the Association and League conference committees will meet, the Association committee reporting the result of their agreements with the dropped clubs.

A joint session of both organizations will then follow, and the final plan and all settlements be made public. The cost of peace to the League will be between $100,000 and $150,000.

TUPPER'S IDEA OF "TREASON."

He is Evidently Afraid That Annexation Talk May Amount to Something.

TORONTO, Dec. 17.—Hon. C. H. Tupper, in an address here last night, remarked that while it was necessary to expose the nefarious designs of those who were endeavoring to educate the people up to annexation there was no real danger of this being brought about. He quoted from speeches of Mr. Laurier and Sir R. Cartwright and from articles in The Globe, and condemned them as treasonable. Of the writer of The Globe articles he said our forefathers would not have scrupled much to hang such men to the nearest tree. He claimed that too much was made of the ex-cups, and said that in ten years the country would be all right. With fast communication between England, Canada, Australia and Hong Kong, the future of the Dominion would be assured.

Missing Gunners.

SALEN, Mass., Dec. 16.—William Ballard and Thomas Russell, both of this city, started out one week ago last Sunday to go gunning, intending to go into the woods near Boxford. This was the last seen of the young men, and their families have instituted a search for them. Ballard is married.

Merriam of Minnesota for Second Place. CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Prominent Republican politicians of Minnesota declare that the northwest intends to make a strong bid for the second place on the Republican national ticket. The man upon whom they are practically united is Governor W. R. Merriam of Minnesota.

Will Probably Answer Next Time.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 15.—Oliver F. Sarle of Warwick was fined $50 and costs, amounting to $135.50, in the United States district court, for refusing to answer certain questions propounded by the census collector last June.

THE OBSERVATORY.

Brilliant Foreigners. Max O'Rell, Paderewski. "Paul Kauvar." Poet Whittier, etc.

Brilliant foreigners seem to be taking Boston by storm. Since Edwin Arnold honored us with a visit, we have seen the advent of a distinguished Frenchman and a noted Polish musician. Every one has come to the conclusion that Max O'Rell must be a very sensible man as well as an accomplished lecturer for in the first place he married an American; and although with his own peculiar wit he points out the weaknesses of poor Jonathan, yet he holds up the American woman as the model woman of the world. After such an opinion as that he may say anything with impunity to an American audience. Whatever stories he chooses to tell, they are fresh and pointed, not sharp enough to cut though often he uses his polished wit and that inimitable French pantomime at our expense. He knows full well that we Americans enjoy a joke even if it hits us, for we have neither the obtuseness of the English or the super-sensitiveness of the French.

Impressions of Paderewski seem to be that no adjectives can describe either his peculiar appearance or his power over the piano. One must see and hear to appreciate this genius. But enough said when we find him compelling the entire attention of the members of the Symphony Orchestra, when Mr. Nikisch himself applauds frantically and shakes him by the hand; when the most sedate and dignified of the upper ten lose control of that perfect serenity and actually pound with umbrellas, and above all when the impatient soul who must catch a train stops in his heading career and stands spell-bound till Paderewski vanishes, why that is enthusiasm, and most refreshing too! We welcome you, good Pole!

Not long since I attended the play "Paul Kauvar," a striking representation of some incidents of the French Revolution. The sans culottes led on by Carac and a shrieking virago, was almost too vivid to be agreeable, for it brought back a thrilling experience of our party in London a year since. We had taken a four-wheeler for the Covent Garden Theatre where the famous brothers De Reszke were to sing in "Lohengrin"; suddenly as we approached our destination, our "cabby" was jeered by some rough looking people in the street, and in another minute we were surrounded by a howling mob of East Enders, evidently intending to make all the disturbance possible. There was no defence as it was caused by a police strike, and the people in the long row of carriages were at their mercy. If we Americans were terrified, how must it have been with the upper ten of London who were in gala array and loaded with jewels, as the lowest class in the slums of that great city, thrust their wicked faces through the open windows! We escaped unscathed, subject only to a few jibes and such facetious remarks as, "Ope your enjoying yourselves; pleasant heavening isn't it?" The Princess of Wales was present at the Opera that evening and many other titled heads, but only one instance of trouble from the mob was recorded: Duchess B's carriage was attacked probably for the sake of her diamonds; the door was forced open, but fortunately she was attended by a New York gentleman who knocked down three of the wretches and kept the rest at bay till the special mounted police came to their assistance.

Many happy returns of the day to our dear American poet John G. Whittier. His eighty-fourth birthday must be a happy one if the best wishes of his countrymen make it so. He is one of the most popular of the galaxy of great writers among whom only he and Dr. Holmes survive, for Hawthorne, Emerson, Longfellow and Lowell have passed on. Dr. Holmes has written him a most touching letter on this occasion, and it is not long since he paid Mr. Whittier a call. He found the dear old man unchanged, and still clings to the Quaker dress of long ago. At present he is living with his cousin high up on a hill just outside of Newburyport, and he keeps constantly with him a photograph on glass of the hearthstone which figures in his famous "Snowbound"; this hearthstone is in the living room of the old Whittier homestead at East Haverhill, and the furniture and arrangement in the picture is exactly as when the poet as a child sat before it and long afterwards wrote:

"Shut in from all the world without
We sat the clean-winged hearth about.
Content to let the north wind roar
In baffled rage at pane and door
While the red logs before us beat
The frost line back with tropic heat.
The house dog, on his paws outspread,
Laid to the fire his drowsy head,
The cat's dark silhouette on the wall
A couchant tiger seemed to fall;
And, for the winter fireless meet,
Between the auditors' straddling feet,
The mug of cider simmered slow;
The apples spluttered in a row,
And close at hand the basket stood;
With nuts from brown October's wood."

If Miss Ruth Cleveland is to be showered with handsome Christmas presents from all the United States, we fear there will be nothing left for Papa and Mamma to give their little daughter. She is now to have a rocking-chair made from a door that fell from Gen. Grant's log cabin on the Dent Farm; it is to have solid silver screws and a silver plate inscribed "Presented to Miss Ruth Cleveland with compliments of the St. Louis Board of Trade, Christmas, 1891."

We have been informed that the Queen makes use of a typewriter. If this be true what will the pen-makers do then poor things!

RUTH CARR.

A SHAKER CHRISTMAS.

HOW THE FESTIVAL IS KEPT BY THESE RELIGIOUS CELIBATES.

The Day is One of Great Significance to Them and is Observed with Great Solemnity—Their Songs, Marches and Shaking—The Christmas Dinner.

No one probably celebrates the glad Christmas holiday in a more peculiar way than do the Shakers, those strange yet industrious celibates who were brought over from England considerably over a century ago by the good old "Mother Ann Lee." There are several colonies of these queer people in the United States, and all enjoy the same pleasures, if there can be such a thing in their lives, and all believe in the same doctrines. Years ago these honest but misguided people discovered that the Scriptures directed all men and women to live apart. They believe that because the Messiah did not marry it is a sin for them to do so, and consequently there is but one love in their lives, and that a love of religion.

The Shakers have a manner and style peculiarly their own and worship God in every breath. Believing as they do in the Messiah, they think it a duty to celebrate the birth of the Saviour, and their service on Christmas day is most beautiful and impressive. The remark "still as a Shaker meeting" has often been heard, and those who have attended a meeting of these devout people know that a word is never spoken until the "spirit moves," and so it goes from Sunday to Sunday until Christmas comes, which with them means a day of the greatest devotion. The day to them does not bring the joys, pleasures and dissipations of the world, there is no giving of gifts, no belief in St. Nicholas, no Christmas tree and no pleasures, in fact nothing but prayer. No preparations are made for the glad festival.

The morning before Christmas the celibates move toward the little church in couples. The men go by themselves and dress in the conventional black, with broad brimmed hats and gaze straight before them. They never smile, for to smile is a sin in their belief. The women follow the men, and wear Shaker bonnets of yellow straw and gray gowns, and look prim and quaint. A large white handkerchief covers the chest in primitive simplicity. Quietness reigns throughout the day, never a word being spoken. In fact the spirit does not move, and the people stand there for hours like statues. At sundown they go to the dormitories and retire.

Christmas morning they go to the church again and pass the holiday in prayer, song and religious glorification. They stand perfectly quiet and mute until the "spirit moves," when each one gives his or her experience, for on this day above all they delight in testifying to their great and complete happiness. A Shaker church is entirely different from the "world's people's" church. Instead of seats or pews, as are usually seen in churches, there is a big open space, and the men and women range themselves on opposite sides of the room. One of the elders makes a short address. Then all is quietness. After about half an hour a dozen or so of the younger people, either male or female, or perhaps both, enter the center of the space and begin a solemn march.

The Shakers sing beautifully and their tunes are remarkably pretty, sprightly and quick in character, and have a wonderfully fascinating air. The rich, deep bass voices harmonize perfectly with the clear, sweet and high tenors and sopranos. Almost irresistibly the feet and hands of all commence keeping time with rhythmic beats. Soon the entire body of Shakers are moving around the singers. As the music increases the men and women circling around become so imbued with the beating of the notes that their bodies swing and rock, their feet dance and shuffle, their hands and arms swing and beat the air, all in perfect keeping with the music. This grows more intense until they all drop from sheer fatigue. Quietness again reigns for nearly an hour, when the same performance is gone over, and then over again, until sundown, when all repair to the dormitories to enjoy the only meal in the year in each other's company, for on every other day the men and women eat by themselves.

The Christmas dinner of the Shakers is not like the Christmas dinner of the world's people. There are no wines, fruits nor delicacies. They have turkeys, ducks, chickens and plain bread and butter and vegetables of every kind, well cooked and in the greatest abundance. The women occupy one side of the table, the men the other. The elder sits at the head and invokes divine blessing, then each man and woman rises alternately and lifting their right hand say, "God is love." They then begin eating, and during the meal not a word is spoken, each one helping himself or herself to what they desire. They drink an enormous quantity of milk during the meal. At the conclusion of the Christmas dinner all rise and sing. The clear voices of the celibates make the banquet room ring with a soft and charming melody. The hands and feet of all keep time.

After the song the elder raises his eyes heavenward and chants a prayer in which all join; after which they march from the room in couples, the men together and the women by themselves, and go to their dormitories. The remainder of the night, while the world outside is enjoying itself in every conceivable dissipation, is given up to song and prayer, and all night long the voices of the Shaker sisters and brothers are heard through the halls.

The Shakers are kind hearted and generous. They are very hospitable, and it is one of their principles to entertain and honor all who come into their little world. For days before Christmas they find great pleasure in sending good things to the poor in the neighborhood, and no matter how poor a man may be, he is sure of a good Christmas dinner if he lives in the neighborhood of a colony of Shakers.—Buffalo Express.

WHAT CHRISTMAS MEANS.

Celebrated as a Holy Day Since the Year of Our Lord 98.

At midnight on the 25th of this month the birthday of the Saviour of mankind will have been celebrated for the seven hundred and ninety-second time, for Christmas was first kept as a holy day A. D. 98. We have no means of determining the exact date of the Saviour's nativity.

As to the year, preponderance of opinion and of such evidence as we have seems to favor that of 4 or 5 B. C. As to the month, December is the height of the rainy season in Judea, and, therefore, the fact, as stated by the New Testament, that shepherds were watching their flocks on its plains while stars were shining in the heavens on the night of the Saviour's birth, makes it extremely unlikely that it could have occurred in that month. Many learned treatises have been written and plausible arguments advanced to prove that it must have taken place in October, but the question will ever remain in abeyance.

For the first three centuries Christmas was one of the most movable of all religious festivals. The Eastern church observed Jan. 6 as the anniversary both of Christ's birth and circumcision. But in the fourth century Pope Julius I ordered an investigation of the matter, and after long deliberation the theologians of both the east and the west united in appointing Dec. 25 to be kept as Christ's birthday. It seems not probable that in selecting Dec. 25 as the date of the greatest event save one—the crucifixion—in the world's history the worthy fathers were influenced by a desire to supplant the many heathen festivals of the winter solstice, such as the Saturnalia, or great festival of Saturn and Ops, which began on Dec. 19 (or after Caesar's reformation of the calendar on the 17th) and continued for seven days.

This presumption is made more probable from the fact that for many centuries the festivities of Christmas were prolonged until "Twelfth night," Jan. 6, and even till Candlemas day, Feb. 2, while they usually began as early as the night before All Saints' Day, or Halloween, thus showing the desire of the early fathers of the church to make the heathen converts to Christianity feel that they had lost nothing in harmless pleasure and enjoyment by the substitution of the Christian festival for the heathen one.

Not only did the Romans observe this period of the year as a time for mirth and rejoicing, but many of our most familiar Christmas usages are derived from the old heathen festivals which Christmas replaced. The custom of giving Christmas presents, now so universally observed, was derived from the old Roman Saturnalia or Feast of Saturn, above mentioned, at which it was customary for all the members of a household to offer gifts to one another.

The Yule clog, or log—the great stick of timber placed in olden times upon the Christmas fire—was derived from the Saxon feast of Jul or Yul, at which a similar piece of timber gave the principal fire and the principal light. The Yule clog and the superstitions connected with it are among the most venerable of Christmas associations. The Yule clogs that blazed in the vast halls of the old English feudal barons of the Middle Ages were huge trees, and were told that even just before the close of the last century the mansion of an English gentleman residing near Shrewsbury was totally destroyed by fire in consequence of too large a Yule log having been lighted on his hearthstone. When the Yule clog was not all consumed before dawn and burned on into the light of Christmas day, its ashes were carefully preserved until the next Christmas eve.

The custom of decorating churches, dwellings and places of business with evergreen, holly, laurel, bays and mistletoe at the Christmas season has also a heathen origin, being a perpetuation of an observance of the old British Druids, whose belief it was that kindly sylvan spirits sought these ornaments of living green and hovered near them, untouched and unharmed by nipping frost, until the death of winter.

Those same old Druids attached much importance to the mistletoe, investing it with a peculiarly hallowed and mystic character. They regarded it as an emblem of love and believed that it typified the beneficent feelings of their gods toward mankind. It is doubtless to this old Druidical association of the mistletoe with love that the English custom, which still obtains, of enforcing the forfeit of a kiss from any female who is caught under a branch of it at Christmas time is traceable.

By the celebration of Christmas, with its grand liturgy, its magnificent music and its pictorial and dramatic representations of the principal events in the life of him whose birth it commemorated, the church sought to replace these heathen festivities and to lift up the minds of the people to something higher and holier, though from the first the day was regarded both as a holy commemoration of a most sacred event and as a mirthful, joyous festival. In the Middle Ages the festive observances of the day often so far overtopped its more sacred features that the clergy were frequently compelled to check the unseemly merriment of their flocks.

The name of Christmas assigned to the festival was derived from Christ and the Saxon maesse or mass, and the two words were combined to denote a special service in honor of the birth of the Son of God.

Probably one of the most generally known of the old Christmas observances, next to the giving of presents, is the singing of Christmas carols. These were pious canticles designed to replace the ribald songs of the old heathen festivals, and the custom of children and even grown people going about from house to house singing them at the door on Christmas eve and being rewarded with Christmas cheer and Christmas spending money is maintained in many parts of England even at the present day.—New York World.

CHRISTMAS CAROL.

The earth has grown old with its burden of years.

But at Christmas it always is young. The heart of the Jew burns lustrous and fair. And the soul full of music breaks forth on the air.

When the song of the angels is sung. It is coming, old earth, it is coming tonight. On the snowflakes which cover thy sod. The feet of the Christ child fall gentle and white.

And the voice of the Christ child tells out with delight. That mankind are the children of God. In the sad and the lonely, the wretched and poor.

The voice of the Christ child shall fall. And to every blind wanderer open the door. Of a hope that he dared not to dream of before. With a sunshine of welcome for all.

The feet of the humblest may walk in the field. Where the feet of the Holiest have trod. This, this is the marvel to mortals revealed. When the silver trumpets of Christmas have pealed. That mankind are the children of God. —Phillips Brooks in Youth's Companion.

BABY'S CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Little Margarita Had Her Own Views About Making Presents.

We were talking over Christmas gifts at luncheon, when Margarita said: "Want to buy Kismas presents too? Want to buy Kismas presents too?" At once Uncle Jim exclaimed: "So Margarita shall buy Christmas presents!"

Upon which Margarita rewarded him with a smile enchanting enough to have made a far poorer man than Uncle Jim do exactly what Uncle Jim did. He pulled a big roll of bank bills from his pocket and put them in the little one's tiny hand.

"That is all nonsense, Jim! Don't you do it!" said papa.

"She will bankrupt you in an hour," said Inez.

"I wouldn't, Jim," said mamma gently. "She knows no more about the worth of money than any other little two-year-old girl, if she is my baby and your niece."

"You were two and a half years old last month, weren't you, pet?" cried her uncle, catching her in his arms. "And you shall buy some Christmas presents if you want to. We don't care what they say. We will show them that Margarita has as much wisdom as some older people in selecting gifts. We know, don't we, pet?"

And of course Margarita said yes.

So it came about that as the others were engaged I accompanied Margarita that afternoon on her first round of Christmas shopping. I had my strict injunctions from Uncle Jim not to urge any purchase upon the child, but to allow her to have her own choice in everything, provided prices did not exceed a certain sum.

When Margarita's nurse brought her down to the carriage she did look sweet and wise enough to almost win me over to Uncle Jim's opinion.

Thinking that books would please the little one as much as anything, we drove to a book store and made our way from counter to counter. At first nothing seemed to interest Margarita so much as the gay crowds of people. Finally, she looked up from a picture book, in reply to my question, "What do you want to buy for Maurice?" she said, "Want to buy tandy lephant."

At the confectioner's there was a grand array of sugar animals, and Margarita seized upon a white elephant, and was perfectly satisfied.

"Will the little lady have anything else?" asked the saleswoman politely.

"Do you want to buy anything here for Inez or Uncle Jim or nurse?" I asked.

But the yellow curls shook decidedly as she answered:

"Nuffin now."

Our next stop was at a large fancy goods store, and I thought that here the little girl would certainly see something to strike her fancy. But the beautiful things were passed unheeded. At last she said:

"Want to buy mamma a tandy titten?"

As Tony, the coachman, said that there was a confectioner's near by, we drove there instead of to the place where we bought the elephant.

A saleswoman informed me that I would find the animals at the lower end of the store, whereupon Margarita said:

"Don't want to buy animals! Want to buy a tandy titten!"

Of course everybody within hearing laughed, and I hurried Margarita along toward the counter where kittens were kept.

The purchase made, other stores were visited, but all to no purpose. Five times we returned to one or the other of the two large candy stores for a "tandy wabbit" for nurse, a "tandy piggy" for Inez, a "tandy butty" for Nannie, a "tandy mousey" for papa, and to cap all, which was, like the others, her own choice, a "tandy monkey" for Uncle Jim.

"Aren't you going to buy me anything?" I asked.

"No," said Margarita, rather wearily, "I loves 'em" as if love were enough, and I felt that it was.

Contrary to my expectations, the little one was silent in regard to her shopping, and even Uncle Jim asked no questions.

On Christmas eve I went to the drawer where I had put the gifts that Margarita had bought, but not a package was there. I felt almost certain that Margarita had not touched them, for she was not an amiable child. But if she had not been asleep I would have questioned her. As it was I searched everywhere, but could find no trace of them.

The next morning I asked Margarita about it.

She looked up innocently and said, with the sweetest smile in the world: "Oh, I eated up thum all!"—Toronto Empire.

Mrs. Snowden—I hear that Jimmy Jenkins, the coachman, has eloped with old Moneybag's daughter. Mr. Snowden—That will tickle the old man immensely. Mrs. Snowden—How so? Mr. Snowden—Why, the old skindit will get out of giving her a Christmas present.—Kearney Enterprise.

The children's Christmas festival will be observed at the Methodist Church Thursday evening, at 7.30 o'clock.

A large representation of Lincoln Division, Sons of Temperance, of Lawrence, enjoyed the hospitality and welcome extended by Wynona Lodge, I.O.G.T., Monday evening. And so Messrs. Hoar and Williams think that Mr. Stevens should not be placed upon the Ways and Means Committee, as he would not represent the Latin sentiment of New England. Mr. Stevens is a big manufacturer, and on general principles might be considered to know something about business, and at least as much about the tariff as one who had never done anything but read Blackstone. But evidently Messrs. Hoar and Williams are disciples of "Pinafore" and believe that Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., made a better ruler of the Queen's navy simply because he never went to sea and was greatly astonished when he discovered that ships were hollow—Boston Journal.

Eugene Hanson of Valpey Bros.' market is just recovering from a severe case of the grip.

Mr. Amos Dyer, a resident of this place for many years, died recently at his home in Maine.

As Mr. Robinson was clearing a section of the large hayfield of the James H. Davis estate, of shrubs and bushes Saturday, either by sparks from a bonfire near by or otherwise, fire was communicated to a mound of cabbages stored for the winter in the same field. The mound was about 300 feet long and about 35 feet wide, and contained about 1000 barrels, the vegetables being arranged in two layers and covered to a depth of about 8 inches with meadow hay. The patch was soon a mass of flames and the entire top layer was badly scorched. If the smoke has not penetrated deeply among the leaves of the several cabbages, they will be marketable after being stripped of the outer leaves, and the loss will reach about $200 or $300. If they prove to be ruined Mr. Robinson will lose $1000.

The Senate confirmed the appointment of Mr. C. A. Pilling for postmaster of No. Andover Depot office during the session of Wednesday.

The following item appeared in last evening's Journal:

A loaded team belong to J. H. Nason, of West Boxford, was struck by a train of the Haverhill and Georgetown branch, on the Boston & Maine Railroad, this forenoon in Taylor, Goodwin & Co's coal yard at Bradford. Both horses attached to the wagon were instantly killed, and the driver, John Barker, seriously injured. The team had been loaded at the coal sheds and in driving from the yard was obliged to cross the railroad track. Barker will probably live. He was taken to the hospital.

The family of Mr. George Barker knew nothing of the accident at a late hour last evening and the report comes this morning that it was the hired man who was driving the team. Advice from the Haverhill Police Station and from the coal yard where the accident occurred, say it was John Barker of West Boxford, and it happened at about 11.40 yesterday morning.

MRS. BRACKETT IS THE WIFE OF THE REV. DAVID BRACKETT, PASTOR OF THE FIRST F. BAPTIST CHURCH, OF THORN DIKE, ME., AND A LADY HIGHLY ESTEEMED BY ALL WHO KNOW HER. SHE SAYS:—

BROOKS, ME., Oct. 22, 1890. Gents:—When I commenced the use of DANA'S SARSAPARILLA for Rheumatism, I had lost the use of my right arm. THE SHOULDER JOINT WAS VERY TENDER AND VERY STIFF. I could not sew, and could not get my hand to my head. I had a great deal of pain in the chest, especially around my lungs. My skin was yellow and rough, and I was tired all the time.

I have now taken four bottles, and the pain and soreness are gone. Complexion natural, and tired feeling fast leaving. I sleep well nights, and the STIFF JOINT IN THE SHOULDER IS FAST RESUMING ITS NATURAL ELASTICITY. I can sew or do any work as usual.

I am still using the SARSAPARILLA, and expect to entirely recover from the effects of the rheumatism that has troubled me so long. I think DANA'S SARSAPARILLA IS DEATH TO RHEUMATISM.

Yours truly, MRS. D. BRACKETT.
